NAVAL OFFICERS

WILL GIVE VIEWS ON 'AIR SERVICE'

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels was asked today to order Rear Admiral William S. Sims, Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske and officers of the navy general board to appear before the House naval affairs committee to give their views on the aircraft-capital ship controversy.

The request for the officers' appearance was made by Representative Britten, of Illinois. Statements made by Brigadier General Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, that war aircraft had made capital ships obsolete, which was subsequently denied by Secretary Daniels as "absurd," caused the controversy, which Britten said today he believed should be cleared up. Particular is this true in view of the contemplated building program for the navy.

The city engineer reported on the extension of sanitary sewers for East Albany and was instructed to draw up the proper ordinances for construction of the sewer. The ordinances will be considered at the next regular meeting.

F. T. Adams was elected as sanitary officer.

An ordinance was introduced prohibiting the running at large of chickens, geese and turkeys.

A resolution was passed authorizing a physical examination for all firemen and police officers each six months.

CLOUTURE DEFEATED

BY A CLOSE MARGIN

OF 1 VOTE IN SENATE

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Attempts to apply cloture in order to choke off debate on the Fordney emergency tariff bill was voted down in the Senate today.

The vote, by which was motion for cloture, was defeated was 35 to 36. Adoption of cloture requires two-thirds of those present and voting.

Democratic opponents of the bill revealed their carefully concealed plans when Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, the minority leader, announced that he and his colleagues would offer no objection to fixing a time for voting on the bill after the question of cloture is first disposed of.

As a certain indication of the closeness with which The Daily is read by its subscribers, the story was a big success. As a weather forecast, however, in the vernacular of the streets, it was a "bum steer."

Mr. G. H. saw his shadow today, notwithstanding the weather man's promise.

CONFERENCE WITH

GERMANY MAY BE

POSTPONED AVERS

(International News Service)

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The indemnity conference in London, scheduled to open February 28, when the Germans will be permitted to present their views to the Allies, probably will be postponed, it was announced at the foreign office today.

Despite the declaration of Dr. Simons, German foreign minister, in the Reichstag that the indemnity decision cannot be accepted by Germany, foreign office officials said they believed that the Germans would send representatives to participate in the conference.

Belief was expressed in foreign offices circles that Dr. Simons' hostile speech was intended for "home consumption." The Allies will forbid any discussion on the amount that Germany must pay. This question cannot be reopened, it was stated. The only angle the Germans may discuss is the method of payment.

BIG ARMY FAVORED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—President-elect Harding favors an army of 175,000 men with reduction to 150,000 men at some later time, Chairman Kahn, of the military affairs committee, today told the House. The President-elect does not seek the passage of the army appropriation bill, reducing the army to 150,000 men, Kahn said.

ALABAMA PRODUCE SHOWS AN INCREASE IN YEAR, ACCORDING TO FIGURES OF GIST

Data on Farm and Orchard Products Announced by Statistician

WARNING ISSUED BY BUREAU PURE FOODS

Wallace Returns to Capital After Attending Meeting in New York

Montgomery Bureau Albany-Decatur Daily

MONTGOMERY, Feb. 2.—During 1920 Alabama's farms, orchards and gardens produced crops to the value of $429,473,000. These figures include the value of livestock production, orchard fruits, minor fruits and vegetables, in addition to field crop values, estimates upon which have already been issued. This aggregate value of farm production throughout the state during the period named is contained in a final summary issued Tuesday by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, co-operating with the markets division of the Alabama agricultural department. Mr. Gist places the aggregate value of farm production in Alabama in 1919 at $582,281,000.

The total value of livestock products in the state in 1920, Mr. Gist places at $329,917,000, as compared with a value of $131,104,000 in 1919. The value of field crops, heretofore estimated for 1920, is stated as $255,729,000. A considerable increase is shown in the value of orchard fruits, which was $4,837,000 in 1920, as compared with $4,242,000 in 1919. The value of small fruits, nuts and vegetables in 1920 is placed at $40,000,000 as compared with $45,100,000 in 1919.

The consumption of beef in the state during the year 1920 is estimated at 95,000,000 pounds; the net weight of the beef going into consumption from the farms at 113,760,000 pounds; the production being 119.8 per cent of the consumption. The ratio of production to consumption last year, it is stated, was 125 per cent.

Consumption of pork in Alabama during 1920 is estimated at 278,000,000 pounds; the net weight of pork going into consumption from the farms at 257,897,000 pounds; the production being 92.3 per cent of the consumption. The ratio in 1919 was 88 per cent.

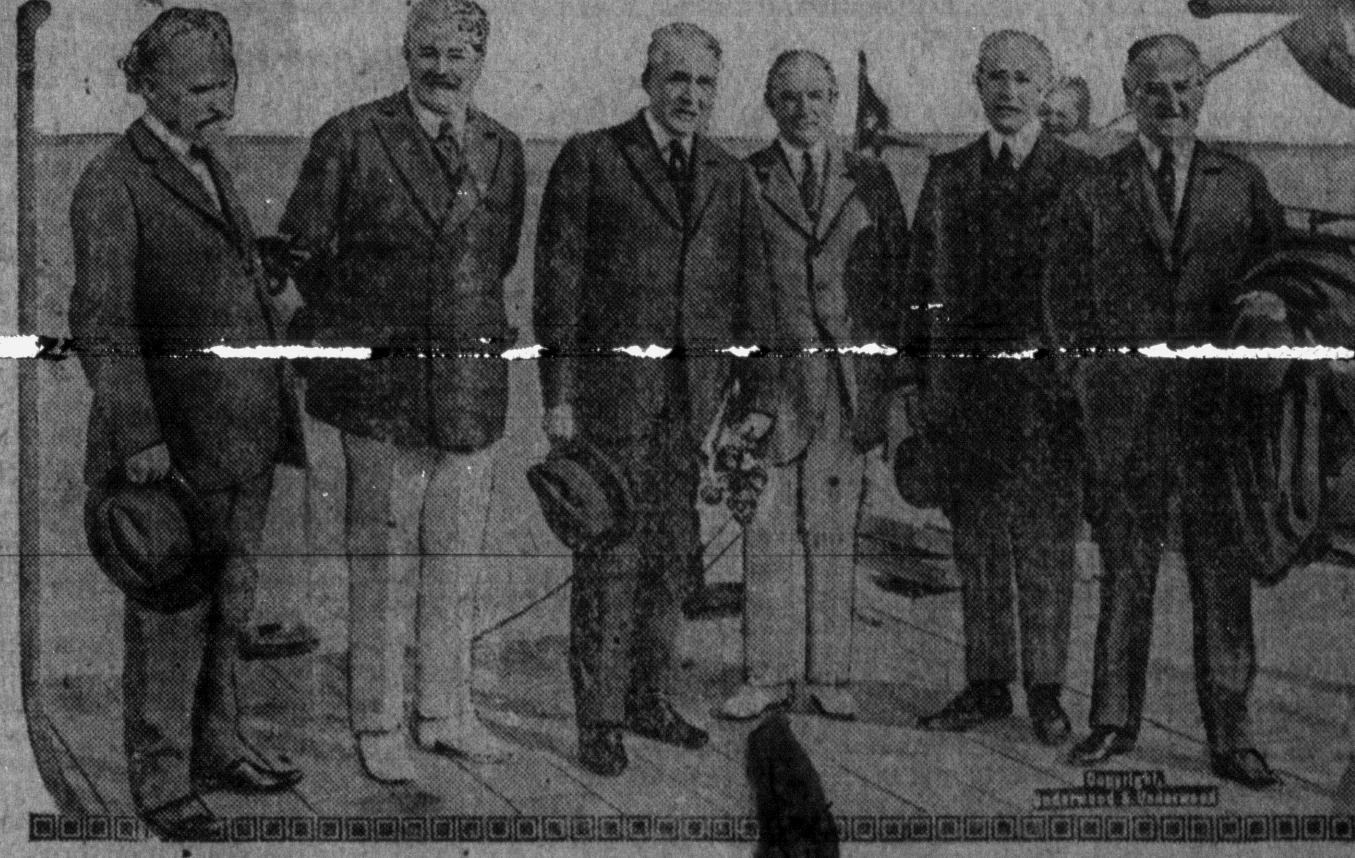

The number of brood sows on hand this January is estimated at 240,000, as compared with 286,000 last January, the decrease being due to sales of sows at high prices last spring. The general decrease in hogs on hand is declared to be due to heavy sales and slaughters. The same also may be said, it is stated, of cattle other than milk cows.

Stating he has been advised by persons making complaint that "wheat feed" is being invoiced and otherwise held out by certain shippers as wheat shorts, "brown shorts" as gray shorts, and "36 per cent protein (standard) C. S. meal" as prime or high grade C. S. meal, a notice of warning to shippers has been issued by J. M. Moore, director of the state bureau of pure foods, feeds and drugs. Copies of this notice have been sent to all manufacturers, importers, jobbers, firms, associations, corporations or persons tagging or labeling, invoicing, billing or executing other documents relating to shipments of commercial feeding stuffs for sale in Alabama.

J. F. Stroud, state soil survey expert, in a letter to M. C. Allgood, commissioner of agriculture, states that the survey of Choctaw county will be completed within two months and that the work in Marengo county is practically finished. The survey of 213.5 square miles has been completed in Crenshaw county, he states, leaving a total of 404.5 square miles in this county yet to be reported on.

It was announced Tuesday by W. B. Allgood, chief clerk of the state agricultural department, that from October 1, 1920, to February 1, 1921, receipts from the sale of fertilizer tags

THIRD MEMBER OF ALLEGED 'RING' ON TRIAL WEDNESDAY

(International News Service)

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 2.—When court opened here today Jake Smith, third member of an alleged "moonshiners' ring" to be tried for the murder of Don Stevenson, prohibition officer on Stevenson January 22, faced the jury.

The jury late yesterday found Sid Kirby, father of Hamp Kirby, who was sentenced to life imprisonment on Monday, guilty of second degree murder and sentenced him to 20 years in the penitentiary.

Sid Kirby testified that he tried to persuade his son, Hamp, not to fire on the officers. He said when the first shots were fired by the boy he ran toward his home without firing.

Kirby identified the "double barrel shotgun" alleged to have been used in the attack on the officers as belonging to him.

Calvin Highfield, prohibition officer who was wounded when Stevenson was killed, declared on the stand that Kirby was the man who shot him.

Andrew McPeters, another officer who was also wounded, testified he was shot by Jake Smith. It was brought out in the testimony that Kirby was employed by Will Holmes, whom authorities charge was the leader of the conspiracy to kill all prohibition officers operating in this section of the state. Fourteen others are under indictment.

W. H. Holmes will be tried next.

GENERAL PERSHING URGES AMERICA TO CONTINUE ARMING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—General John J. Pershing, who, as commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces, knows probably more intimately than any other American the military secrets in Europe, appeared before the House naval affairs committee today and declared it would be both "unwise and unsafe" for America to stop arming unless a general international agreement is reached for limitation of armament.

If America would suggest a conference with the leading powers of the world, looking to disarmament, General Pershing thought it would be in all probability meet with a favorable response.

"MARKING TIME" IN CONTROVERSY ON WAGE SCALES

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Railway executives and railway employees marked time today in their fight over the question of wage reductions. Both sides were awaiting a reply from President Wilson to telegrams sent him in connection with the controversy.

The employees were preparing the evidence they will present before the United States Railway Labor Board at a hearing tomorrow. The latest broadside in the battle came from the railway executives. In a telegram, signed by Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, chairman, the Association of Railway Executives laid before President Wilson a denial of charges previously telegraphed by the railway brotherhoods that the roads were practicing "purposeful inefficiency" in order to force down wages.

HANDLERS OF "WET GOODS" ARE HIT AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—

Wholesale liquor dealers will be closed out of business by the terms of an order issued today by Internal Revenue Commissioner Williams. He announced that, upon the basis of an opinion by the attorney-general, he has promulgated an order which will close out the wholesale liquor dealers and restrict the withdrawal and sale of beverage liquors in the future to manufacturers and druggists. Wholesale liquor dealers will be permitted to dispose of their stock on hand and certificates of liquor in bonded warehouses.

TAXI DRIVER TELLS OF TRIP TO JASPER JAIL AND SHOOTING OF WILLIAM BAIRD

Leslie West, Star Witness for State, Goes on Stand at Hamilton

ORDERED TO TURN HIS HEAD AS SHOTS FIRED

In Calm and Unemotional Manner, Ride of Death Described in Detail

(International News Service)

HAMILTON, Ala., Feb. 2.—That the leader of the mob had ordered him to "stop right there and turn your head" when a spot had been reached which suited the mob for the lynching of William Baird on the morning of January 13, was the testimony of Leslie West, star witness for the state, when he took the witness stand in the trial of Sergeant Robert L. Lancaster, first of the nine members of Company M, Alabama National Guard, charged with the crime.

West was calm when he took the stand and described in simple terms, without show of emotion, the trip from Townley to Jasper, the attack on the jail and the events that followed.

Drove Big Car.

West testified that he drove a large car, filled with soldiers and others in civilian clothes. His car followed a small car, likewise filled. He was engaged at midnight to take a party to Jasper and was told that "he must not know anything," he said.

He was ordered to stop his car and put out the lights when within 50 feet of the jail. The men in both cars got out and approached the jail. When they came out of the jail Baird was placed in the smaller car.

It was very dark and he did not see Baird at any time, West declared. On leaving the jail the small car took the lead and his party trailed it to a point two miles from Jasper. The leading car stopped and West was ordered to stop also and "turn his head."

Mob Confers.

Following a brief conference between members of the mob, 25 or 30 shots rang out. After the shots had been fired the mob returned to the cars and ordered him to drive back to Townley, he said.

West testified that he recognized Lancaster and Guardsmen Richardson, Hamby and Speed as members of the mob.

Jailer Sides testified that the members of the mob wore masks, and that he did not recognize any of them. He identified Lancaster as one of three guardsmen who had visited the jail three days before the lynching and looked at Baird through the bars.

22 Bullet Holes.

Coroner Legg testified that he found 22 bullet holes in Baird's body. He also

AS TO THE HOUSING PROBLEM

Whether the markets and production are in heartiest cooperation just at this time, and whether or not the nation is on the topmost waves of rushing business, the fact remains that the people of the present and the future must live in houses, unless perchance we can find our way back to the cave dwellings of our early ancestors, which is, of course, an utter impossibility. In a word the greatest single demand of the present and near future is larger housing facilities. Many people held their own and some even went forward during the war, but the business of house building came almost to a standstill, and so it remains to a great extent. In the past people as individuals, have attended to the housing problem; individual initiative and enterprise has been sufficient to provide homes for those who really desired them. But under the new conditions under which we live it is going to take concerted action, to solve the housing problem. It is necessary for a number of persons to mutually agree upon some definite plan if sufficient houses are erected in the near future. The different organizations of this community, regardless of what their original purpose is, should seriously consider plans whereby a larger number of houses shall be built in the Twin Cities at no distant date.

There should be no objection to the greatest possible unity of council among all kinds of organizations. For the simple reason that housing, at this time, is of first consideration. Not only as a business proposition, but as a patriotic measure, plans should be devised and worked out whereby every able bodied person in the whole community can have a house of his own if he so desires. The wider the separation between the home owning people and those who rent, the greater danger there is to stable business of all kinds.

Such a marked effect does the ownership of property or the lack of it have upon people that from a moral and patriotic standpoint, the way should be opened for all who will, to buy and pay for a home. When the truth of such conclusions as these are realized, and acted upon, then will the sure foundations for a great future be laid. Until leaders in all lines of endeavor regard the problem of sufficient housing, as a moral question, as well as a business consideration, we will simply maintain a waiting policy, and the whole situation is apt to drift from bad to worse.

Any of these plans and similar ones, if put into effect, would doubtless work well; the important thing is to find plans that are workable.

What organization or individual will suggest a house building plan that can be put into effect in the Twin Cities?

AMERICA'S TINIEST EDITOR

Liberal, Kansas, makes a bid for fame by claiming the tiniest editor in America. The editor is little Miss Alice C. Nichols, aged 15 years. She edits the paper, is general manager, composing room staff and runs the circulation department. In fact, she is the entire newspaper staff.

Miss Nichols' paper carries one editorial each week, but her influence is destined to become widespread if there is as much real common sense in each of them as there is in the one picked up by a press association and sent broadcast over the nation. It follows:

"With America's prosperity, it seems inconceivable that there are people not far away who are in the dark abyss of ignorance. Ignorance is the base of constant war, starvation and homelessness. Ignorance throws Christian and happy people into darkness of horrible death. It is up to happy American citizens to do away with these conditions. The very lives of many human beings hang on the thread of our country's generosity. Our own happiness should make us want to do our part. Share your joys!"

ALL THE PRESIDENTIAL VOTES FOR 1920

With the single exception of Tennessee, all the 48 states have sent in their official lists, showing the number of votes cast for each of the seven presidential candidates. There were 26,759,708 votes cast for president in 1920 compared to 18,515,340 cast in 1912. Four years ago Mr. Wilson's plurality over Mr. Hughes was 519,385; while Harding polled a plurality over Mr. Cox of 7,001,763. In New York state Harding made his greatest showing against Cox, with a total of 1,868,411, to Mr. Cox's only 760,744. In the home state of both candidates, Ohio, Cox received 780,037, Harding 1,182,022. Pennsylvania gave Harding 1,218,215, Cox 503,202. Illinois gave them respectively 1,420,000, 534,394.

Beginning with the smallest candidate for President, in point of number of votes received, Macauley, the Single Taxer polled 5,747 votes; Cox, the Socialist-Labor candidate, 42,950; Christensen, the farm-labor candidate, received 252,425. Eugene V. Debs polled 914,869, in 1920, and 897,011 in 1912.

Benson, the Socialist candidate in 1916, received 585,118. In New York state the socialist candidate polled 203,114 in 1920. In Vermont this party had no electors; in South Carolina, Mr. Debs received 28 votes. Dr. Watkins, the Prohibition party candidate, fell well behind his party's vote in 1916, 187,470 was his entire vote, 33,036 votes less than the prohibition candidate in 1916.

HARVARD'S PREDICAMENT

The report of President A. Lawrence Lowell the overseers of Harvard University may not be cause for alarm so far as that institution is concerned, but the fact that a deficit for the past year of $161,000 is announced will at least focus the attention upon the needs of the schools and colleges of the country.

If a university so richly endowed and with such a host of wealthy graduates as the Cambridge institution is unable to keep within its income what about the multitude of less fortunate colleges?

The increase in teaching salaries, President Lowell points out, more than accounts for the added income realized from the alumni drive and he indicates that the deficit for the current year will be more than double that of 1920.

The only solution of the problem is an increase in tuition fees, says President Lowell. This may solve the Harvard problem. Harvard has ever been known as a "rich man's college." It is popularly believed that those who go to Harvard can afford to pay what Harvard demands.

In the arts and in the law the excellence of the Harvard faculty is generally conceded. Harvard is able to obtain the services of the foremost professors through her ability to pay them a living wage. The country has for years regarded Harvard as a graduate school. The ambition of the student is to obtain the master's or doctor's degree at Cambridge.

If Harvard is to raise the tuition fee it will be a hardship upon numbers of sincere men who feel that they have earned the right to the knowledge that they can acquire there after their preparatory courses in smaller institutions.

It would appear that Harvard might introduce a system of cut rates for those who are really bent upon education while retaining the prevailing scale for those whose sole ambition in life is to pronounce the broa d'a" with pleasing effect or to discourse on the latest thing in cream puffs without apparent effort.—Nashville Tennessean.

SOLVE THE PROBLEM

There are millions of unemployed in this country. The percentage is much greater in other countries. It should not be so. There is more work ahead for human beings right now than ever before in the world's history. Statesmanship should solve the problem of non-employment and find work for all idle hands. The world is run down. Its ravages are everywhere. Even the most prosperous nations need rebuilding. This country is suffering from a lack of houses and buildings in every form. England and France and Italy and Belgium are far more torn than the United States. War's heavy hand did not touch but left its mark of desolation on Denmark, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Spain and Switzerland. All are in need of fresh energy, skilled brawn, brains to conceive. Africa is a field calling for development and all Asia, barring, perhaps, Japan, is a barren. Of course, it goes without saying, Germany, Austria, Turkey, Greece and those new states are practically prostrate. To the south of us lies the richest field for development. Mexico, Central America, and all the South American states, teeming with hidden and revealed wealth, but await the touch of the wand in labor's hand to blossom as the rose and fill the baskets of commerce. There is the problem of readjustment, of bringing nature's laws into operation, of arranging the fields for enterprise and harnessing labor to opportunity. There should be no idle hands among willing workers. But there are. The solution must come and quickly. It may come when nations cease their selfishness, refrain from greed and the old slogan of "all for one and one for all" shall again obtain. The loose screws in the world's economy must be found and tightened. The faulty nuts must be adjusted properly. The friction must be stopped with the oil of essential expediency. We as a people, and we as peoples, must come together in a determined effort to get together for the general weal; workers to become the doers of things of value; wealth to be the product of labor instead of chicanery; property to be the reward of life's struggle and general prosperity the end of man.—Nashville Banner.

With America's prosperity, it seems inconceivable that there are people not far away who are in the dark abyss of ignorance. Ignorance is the base of constant war, starvation and homelessness. Ignorance throws Christian and happy people into darkness of horrible death. It is up to happy American citizens to do away with these conditions. The very lives of many human beings hang on the thread of our country's generosity. Our own happiness should make us want to do our part. Share your joys!"

NEW 'SHUFFLE' IS SHOCKING ST. LOUIS

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 2.—Declaring public dancing in St. Louis within the past several months has become more immoral and indecent than in the past 30 years, F. Lester Celdenin, dancing master, has announced the closing of his dance hall to all public dances "until public tastes and manners improve."

"The 'toddle,' or 'shuffle' craze has driven decent people off the dance floor," he declared. "Now, if ever, is the time for city authorities to step in and organize a board of censorship to supervise public dancing. The time has come when dance hall proprietors must keep a guard at their door to watch 'spooners' in automobiles at the curb."

"When young girls come to dances with their bodices cut as low and their skirts as high as possible, and young men enter the ballroom with whiskey flasks on their hips and a pint or so under their belts, and when such dances as the 'shuffle' are tolerated, the result is something hard to picture in printables terms."

"Dance halls should be under city license, renewable daily and subject to suspension on proof of improper conduct by patrons. The city should have an authorized board to visit all dance halls and report regularly to some constituted authority on the manner of dancing. All dance hall proprietors and dancing instructors should advocate this plan."

Celdenin declared the "shuffle" sometimes referred to as the "Chicago" to be a strictly St. Louis perversion of the art of terpsichore. "I don't know where it came from," he declared, "but I do know where it is leading the youth of this city. St. Louis has gained a nation-wide reputation for vulgarity and license because of it."

SHE WASN'T SICK, BUT HER CHILDREN WERE

Six Months of Care and Worry Were Too Much for Her

GOT THIN, NERVOUS, TIRED

Her Brother-in-Law, a Doctor, Said She Was Anemic, and Advised Pepto-Mangan

Here is a story of a strong, vigorous mother who never knew what health was. But three years ago her two little boys got into the habit of being sick.

Six months of care and worry were too much for her and brought to light the fact that, with all her apparent vigor, she really was anemic. She lost flesh, couldn't sleep well and got nervous.

Then the doctor (her brother-in-law) prescribed Pepto-Mangan.

She said: "Fred explained a lot about the special sort of iron-content in Pepto-Mangan, and a lot of other things that I don't understand, but what I do understand is that a bottle of Pepto-Mangan is always going to be in my medicine closet as long as I live. Whatever it contains, I don't know or care, but I do know that it builds me up when I get run down, and that's enough for me."

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is an absolutely dependable red-blood builder in all conditions of lowered vitality not due to serious disease of the vital organs. It improves the appetite, imparts color to the cheeks, and creates new hope and ambition in those who have become pale, weak and listless. Physicians recommend Gude's Pepto-Mangan. When you order, be sure the word "Gude's" is on the package. Without "Gude's" it is not Pepto-Mangan. Furnished in both liquid and tablet form. For sale by all druggists.—Adv.

John H. Wallace Jr., commissioner of conservation, has returned to the capital from the East where he attended the Seventh National Conference of the American Game Protective Association at New York City. Mr. Wallace delivered an address before the conference on "The Future of National Conservation." All of his proposals were embodied in resolutions subsequently adopted by the conference. Participating in the conference were the leading conservationists of the United States and Canada, the attendance being especially large.

The conference went on record as favoring the creation of a United States Department of Conservation by an act of Congress, as memorizing the International Associations of Rotary and Kiwanis clubs to set aside one day in each year to be devoted to the study of the conservation of natural resources, also favoring the adoption of anti-alien gun-laws by all the states, which would prevent aliens from bearing arms, therefore from hunting.

SWELLING ON CHILD'S CHEEK OPENED BY SURGEONS REVEALS LEAD PENCIL 3 INCHES LONG

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Feb. 2.—Theodore Boisseau, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boisseau, from whose upper jaw a piece of lead pencil three and one-half inches long was removed, is rapidly recovering from the effects of the operation, one of the most unusual ever performed.

When an X-ray was taken of the boy's face it was believed that a broken bone was the cause of the swelling on the cheek. The pencil, which had been imbedded in the child's face for months, was brought to light when the surgeons made an incision at the point of the upper jaw, where little

Edward felt the worst pain.

Last October he was struck by an automobile and in some unusual manner the pencil was driven into his face.

Editor as Wicked as Piano Movers

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Chorus girls wild?—not so you would notice it. And editors saints?—H'm, it must be said they are not. Secretary of State John J. Lyons, from the records of those convicted of crimes in New York State, has compiled some mighty interesting information.

For instance, in picking your friends you should know that clerks and chauffeurs as a class lead the ranks of those who break the laws most frequently. Chorus girls are more law-abiding than waitresses. Editors move on the same plane in criminal statistics as piano movers. And milliners, honest to goodness, have a better record than teachers. In fact there were just as many teachers convicted of crimes as there were lawyers—imagine that.

COTTON MARKET OPENS IRREGULAR

LIVERPOOL AND WALL STREET INTERESTS ARE BOTH BUYERS AND SELLERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The cotton market opened 8 points lower to 5 points higher today. There was considerable selling pressure from near positions by Liverpool interests who were, at the same time, buying late month.

There was fair support early but this later subsided and sagged a little from opening levels. Wall street traded both ways. At the end of the first 20 minutes the market was steady again but quiet, showing about 11 points net loss on May.
